New City Planner Tarek Bolden Is Honored by Local Democrats

by James Giese

Greenbelt Community Planner Tarek Bolden was this year's designated "Sweetheart" of the Franklin and Eleanor Roosevelt Democratic Club at its February 16 meeting. The club chooses one or more city employees each year as a way of recognizing the efforts of the city workers on behalf of the community. For this honor recipients receive a box of Valentine candies and are asked to speak at a club meeting to tell about their work.

Bolden is new to the city, having begun work in September with the Department of Planning and Community Development. The road he traveled began in Brooklyn, N.Y., where he was born and raised and graduated from Brooklyn Technical High School.

Bolden then went to college at Ohio State University, where he began to major in engineering but switched to city planning. He said taking chemistry was what caused him to change goals.

Bolden then did graduate work at Pratt Institute in city and regional planning. While in school he worked full time at Cypress Hills, LDC. Later he worked for the New York City Planning Department in the Borough of

Tarek Bolden

Brooklyn.

Bolden decided to move to this area to provide a better environment for his family. He said that Greenbelt and New York City were two different worlds. New York is much, much larger. Here he finds that public involvement is a lot more spirited. Here also the government does actually listen, he said.

In New York, public comments are limited to two minutes each, he noted, and he felt that by that time the decisions have already been made. If 50,000 people speak out there, he said, they still represent a small part of the city.

Unless you are a big politician, speaking out doesn't make much difference.

As an example, Bolden noted the new Yankee Stadium to be built across the street from the present stadium. The city will participate in the project with millions of dollars in order to provide the owners with more skyboxes. The stadium will actually hold fewer people. He felt it was a done deal before it became known to the public.

Asked if he felt it was possible for private developers to build affordable housing in quality developments, Bolden responded that he believed it was. In New York inclusionary zoning was adopted. For every 20 stories a builder builds, two must be affordable housing. Developers are also given a bonus for doing so, he said.

Local Scene

As to this region, it is not going to be the way it now is, he thought. Now is a good time to try new things. There are limits to outward expansion and long commutes. The future will bring more infill development, he said. He believes there will be more

Lawsuits against ICC Dominate Current State Planning Efforts

by Elaine Skolnik

Both opponents and proponents of the Intercounty Connector (ICC) are gearing up for their respective days in court. Two lawsuits had been filed December 20, 2006, by environmental organizations to block construction of the controversial highway – one by Environmental Defense and Sierra Club in the District of Columbia District Court. The other is by the Audubon Naturalist Society of the Central Atlantic States, Inc., Maryland Native Plant Society and Montgomery County residents Roger Metcalf/Eve Burton (Audubon et al.) in the Federal District Court for the District of Maryland in Greenbelt.

Later, in January 2007, Maryland's State Highway Administration (SHA), an ICC proponent, sought a court ruling under the laws of eminent domain to take legal possession of those properties not yet purchased by SHA and needed for construction of the first leg of the highway. Then in early February, the State of Maryland, an ICC proponent, entered the battle when the state filed a motion to intervene in the lawsuit of Audubon, et al.

The ICC, a six-lane, 18-mile toll highway, is intended to connect Interstate 270 in Gaithersburg with Interstate 95/Route 1 in Laurel at an estimated cost of more than $2.4 billion.

Rick Abbruzzese, spokesperson for Maryland Governor Martin O'Malley, told the News Review that the state's involvement was taken to oppose the environmental organizations' lawsuit so that the ICC will be constructed on schedule.

Preconstruction Activity

Preconstruction activity is ongoing and includes test soil borings, results of which could require minor changes in the ICC alignment in some areas. Construction of the first seven-and-a-half-mile leg, from I-270 to Georgia Avenue, is expected to begin in late spring.

"If we're involved from the beginning, it sends a strong signal. It gives Maryland a seat at the table in the dispute [and] it's another sign of the commitment of the governor," said Abbruzzese, explaining that the "Governor took this action to intervene after Maryland Transportation Secretary John Pocari recommended that the ICC project go forward."

Representing Maryland in the legal proceedings is State's Attorney General Douglas Gansler. According to the February 7 issue of the Montgomery County Gazette, Gansler contends, in documents filed in support of the state's decision to intervene that "the state's interests – including the public benefit of improving transportation and preserving parkland as part of the project – go beyond defending federal agencies' processes that led to approval and permits for building the road."

The U.S. Department of Justice will represent the federal government defendants – the Federal Highway Administration and the United States Army Corps of Engineers – in the Audubon, et al. suit. The federal government's response to the complaint in this suit is due March 12.

When a court date is set however, the sitting judge will hear and rule first on Maryland's request for intervention. The Audubon et al. plaintiffs do not oppose the state's motion to intervene, according to Langley R. Shook, their attorney.

Four youths were observed crossing the bay end of the lake last week, walking on the ice. Apparently they were a little leery of the strength of the ice (as well they should be) as each one crossed alone. The main part of the lake remained unfrozen.

Audubon Society Demand for Relief

WHEREFORE, Plaintiffs respectfully request the Court to:

1. Enter judgment in favor of Plaintiffs and against Defendants on all Counts asserted in this Complaint;
2. Declare that Defendants FHWA (Federal Highway Administration) and USDOT (US Department of Transportation) have violated the National Environmental Policy Act, Section 4(f) of the Department of Transportation Act, and the Administrative Procedure Act;
3. Vacate the Record of Decision for the ICC Project;
4. Declare that Defendant ACOE (Army Corps of Engineers) has violated the Clean Water Act and the Administrative Procedure Act;
5. Order Defendants to conduct a new Environmental Impact Statement to remedy all violation of law identified herein;
6. Vacate the Clean Water Act 404 permit for the ICC Project issued by ACOE to the Maryland State Highway Administration and the Maryland Transportation Authority;
7. Issue an injunction to Defendants to take any and all steps necessary and appropriate to prevent Maryland agencies from taking any action pursuant to the proposed ICC Project that may result in irreparable harm. Such actions would include, but not be limited to, putting contracts out to bid for, completely or partially condemning any property in anticipation of, or engaging in any ground-disturbing or forestry activities related to, construction of the proposed highway and related infrastructure. This injunction would remain in place until Defendants have fully complied with NEPA, Section 4(f) of the Department of Transportation Act, the Clean Water Act, and the Administrative Procedure Act;
8. Award Plaintiffs their attorney's fees and costs pursuant to the Equal Access to Justice Act, 28 U.S.C. 2412, and other applicable statutes; and
9. Grant such other relief as this Court deems appropriate.

Letters to the Editor

A Wonderful Valentine's Day

We awoke on Valentine's Day to a scene both beautiful and depressing: snow and ice and cold. This was not going to be a good day.

Later that morning we saw two of our neighbors, John Nichols and Dave Brown, outside chipping and shoveling ice and snow from our walkways: a pleasant and much appreciated surprise.

Later in the afternoon we answered the doorbell. Standing on the porch were all the Commins children. Rose, Mary, Patty, John, baby Francis along with Mom Monica – holding a giant Valentine card and a bright red heart balloon.

They came in and presented a "Musical Valentine" playing and singing two beautiful songs. What a wonderful gift and what a wonderful Valentine's Day.

With neighbors like this, is it any wonder why we love Greenbelt?

Unplowed Bus Stops

I was spared the grand nuisance of shoveling my car out of the snow and ice thrown over by the snow plows and that is because as a long-term environmentalist I choose to no longer own a car.

But, alas, there remains a problem and that is the city's virtual opposition to public transit as evidenced by its recent failure to clear the snow and ice away from the main Metrobus stop at the Center, even after six days have passed. This stop is at the end of the C2 Bus route and is a pick-up/discharge point for the R12 and T17 buses and one route of TheBus.

There has been no safe way to walk toward the bus stop or to stand at the bus stop or to board the bus while at the bus stop. One must walk along Crescent Road, along the traffic side of the parked bus(es), then (for some) struggle to climb up onto the bank of snow and ice thrown into the bus stop by the snow plows. (The sidewalk parallel to where the Metrobuses park was also covered with snow and ice left by the snow plows.)

Also, on Sunday I rode my bike to Greenway Center and found that the sidewalks along Rt. 193 and along Southway had been almost completely neglected, yet showed thousands of footprints indicating that walkers do exist locally. I had to ride out in the street where it is more dangerous. I wonder whether for sidewalks there should be a plan whereby the main thoroughfares would be cleared before the hundreds of miles of smaller neighborhood sidewalks.

If we want to better protect our environment by increasing the use of buses, biking and walking, we must especially address the needs of riders and walkers during these weather challenges.

THANKS

Thank you to all of my Greenbelt friends, who after the death of my husband, Eddie, on January 23, came to the Co-op store with cards and prayers; to my church family at the Greenbelt Baptist Church who came to my home with dishes of homemade food; to the Greenbelt American Legion and S.A.L. officers, Post 136; to Chef Lou for his kindness and homemade chili; to Pastor Mark Johnson; and a special thank you to Eileen Peterson who wrote the wonderful article of Eddie's life in the Greenbelt News Review. The Old People

Delegate Ross Works for Cleaner Waters

Delegate Justin Ross (D-22) will hold a press conference on the banks of the Anacostia River to discuss saving Maryland's waterways through a Low Impact Development (LID) tax credit. The press conference will take place at 10:30 a.m. on Monday, February 26 at Bladensburg Park, 4601 Annapolis Road in Bladensburg.

LID is a water management strategy designed to significantly limit toxic storm water runoff from infecting our area tributaries including the Anacostia River and the Chesapeake Bay. Storm water runoff becomes toxic when it absorbs chemicals from rooftops, streets and sidewalks causing destruction of the natural ecosystem and loss of natural resources.

LID entails planting green rooftops and vegetation to absorb hazardous chemicals before they enter water systems. The Income Tax Credit – Low Impact Development Act would grant an income tax credit to builders and retrofitters who utilize LID technology providing an incentive for its use.

"All we have to do is make up the difference financially for people to save an important part of our environment and our community. Low Impact Development is a long-term solution and an effective way to fight the pollution of some of our most precious resources," said Ross.

Delegate Jane Lawton (D-18) of Montgomery County will co-host the press conference to discuss her Stormwater Management Act, which will assure the ability to utilize LID strategies in accordance with county regulations.

A number of environmental groups will also attend the event.

On Screen

O'Toole Goes for the Gold

"I am about to die and I know nothing about myself."

Roger Michell's new movie "Venus" features Peter O'Toole and Leslie Phillips as the old friends and actors Maurice and Ian. Despite his advanced years, Maurice hasn't retired from acting . . . or women. The film follows his attempts to score with Ian's grandniece Jessie (played by Jodie Whittaker in her movie debut).

Peter O'Toole's portrayal of Maurice received an Oscar nomination for Best Actor and Vanessa Redgrave delivers a strong supporting performance as Maurice's estranged wife. The darkly comic script was written by Hanif Kureshi (who also penned "My Beautiful Laundrette").

This film is rated R for brief nudity and sexual content.

Nelson will inform the audience of dizziness, signs and symptoms, when to seek medical advice, treatments and self care. She will touch on achieving and maintaining balance and coordination. To achieve them, people must develop both. To successfully and safely move through the environment without bumping into people or objects or fall down following a weight displacement, one must have adequate balance and coordination. Movement that is smooth and efficient helps conserve energy for endurance.

Explorations Unlimited is held every Friday from 1 to 3 p.m. at the Greenbelt Community Center in the Senior Classroom, Room 114. Everyone is welcome to attend and questions are encouraged. Call 301-397-2208 for more information.

We will be collecting money and reservations for the 50th anniversary luncheon to be held on April 18 at the Hilton Gardens. Lydia Goldstein will be collecting for the trip to the Sight and Sound Theater on May 10 to see “In the Beginning.” Dues must be up to date to enjoy these activities.

Several members made the trip to Ellicott City to help Ernie Varda celebrate his birthday.

The sun will come out tomorrow and all this snow and ice will melt.

Hope to see everyone at the next meeting.

ACE Activities

by Liz Murray, coordinator
Writing Contest

The ACE Reading Club, a free reading-incentive program offered by the City of Greenbelt, is holding its fifth annual Youth Writing Contest for students in grades 6 through 12 who live in or attend school in Greenbelt. The contest has two divisions: Junior (grades 6 to 8) and Senior (grades 9 to 12), both with categories for poetry and short fiction. Students may enter up to two entries in each category. There is no theme for the contest this year so students are encouraged to be creative in their topics of choice. Contest entries must be in the Greenbelt CARES office at 25 Crescent Road by March 2.

Students with winning entries will present their pieces at the fifth Annual Greenbelt Youth Literary Showcase and have their work printed in Greenbelt Voices, the ACE Reading Club literary magazine just for youth. Students will receive award certificates and cash prizes.

Service Learning Hours

The ACE Reading Club has many opportunities for ERHS students to earn Service Learning Hours. As a volunteer for the ACE Reading Club, students have the opportunity to help plan, facilitate and evaluate a variety of programs and special events. There is also a volunteer position as a program assistant in the ACE Reading Club office. In order to become a volunteer, students must complete and return the Volunteer Information Form. Part of this form requires that the parent or guardian read and sign a waiver. Once ACE receives the completed form, the student will be contacted about eligibility and service hour dates. There are also opportunities for the summer.

Teen Book Discussion

There will be a Teen Book Discussion held on February 26 at 4:30 p.m. in the Greenbelt CARES office. Refreshments will be served and participants have the opportunity to win a special prize. The book and movie to be discussed is “Hitchhiker’s Guide to the Galaxy” by Douglas Adams. Pre-registration is required.

For more information or to request a volunteer information forms contact Liz Murray, lmurray@greenbeltmd.gov or 301-345-6660.

City Notes

Last week city crews were deployed again on a Tuesday to spread salt and clear sidewalks as the snow and ice began. Several crew members stayed through the night to keep the roads free of snow and ice. Sidewalk crews reported for work early Wednesday and Thursday mornings to open access to city buildings and facilities and clear pathways. Clearing of ice from roads, parking lots and sidewalks continued the rest of the week. Where accessible, refuse and recycling were collected on Wednesday with the remainder collected on Friday. Thursday’s route was collected on schedule.

Facilities maintenance crews also installed a new pole light for the skate park and collected 30.09 tons of refuse and 14.85 tons of co-mingled recyclable materials.

Two new Community Center leaders have been hired and trained.

Animal Control picked up a cat left at the PetsMart in Beltway Plaza and is sheltering three cats given up by their owners. Employees responded to several complaints about animal waste, cruelty to an animal and excessive barking and apprehended two dogs running at large near TGI-Friday’s (the dogs were returned to owners). Finally, carcasses of 15 animals were delivered to the county shelter for proper disposal.

Riversdale Offers Culinary Event

From Sam, Rosalie Stier Calvert's cook, to Emily, Adam Francis Plummer's wife and an excellent cook, African Americans made their mark in the Riversdale House kitchen. Join members of the Riversdale Kitchen Guild in the Plummer's kitchen as they commemorate Black History Month on Sunday, February 25 from noon to 4 p.m. Throughout the afternoon, Guild members will prepare foods common among Maryland's 19th century African Americans in the re-created open-hearth kitchen.

Special guest Michael Twitty, author of "Fighting Old Nephew: The Foodways of Enslaved Afro-Marylanders, 1634-1864," will be on hand to show artifacts from his collection and talk about his research. There is a fee which includes a guided tour of the house.

The Riversdale House Museum, a National Historic Landmark, is located at 4811 Riverdale Road, Riverdale Park.

Liturgical Dancers At Publick Playhouse

Praise II at the Prince George's Publick Playhouse will feature exceptional liturgical dance troupes from the metro area on Sunday, February 25 at 4 p.m.

References to liturgical dance are found in some of the earliest recorded information about Judaism and Christianity. Interest in this dance form waned after time but in the past decade there has been a broad resurgence of liturgical dance activity nationwide, particularly in African-American churches. The second annual liturgical dance festival at the Publick Playhouse brings the dance ministries of four choreographers together for a program of high energy praise.

GIVE THANKS

Every breath that we breathe is a blessing from God and we learn from the Prophet Solomon (peace be upon him) to recognize these blessings each day. The Holy Qur'an tells us how he never forgot to be thankful to God. He is quoted to have said, "This is by the grace of my Lord, to test me whether I am grateful or ungrateful! And if any is grateful, it is (a gain) for his own soul; but if any is ungrateful, truly my Lord is free of all needs, supreme in honor."

— The Holy Qur'an, 27:40

Remember to count your blessings. For more information about gratefulness from an Islamic perspective, call 301-982-9463 or email info@searchislam.org or visit www.searchislam.org.

development and redevelopment like that proposed at Greenbelt Station and the Springhill Lake apartments. In five or 10 more years he expects to see a lot more of this type of development taking place.

Bolden has met Mayor Judith Davis often, he commented. In contrast, he met New York City Mayor Michael Bloomberg only once, after standing in a long line for a photo opportunity. But it was also easier to hide in New York, he noted. Here he has developed personal relationships with citizens, recalling one time when a woman offered the department some maps and he went to her home to get them.

He has not gotten used to the change in scale between here and there. In New York planners talked in terms of blocks. Here it is in acres.

Bolden knew about Greenbelt before he came here because this model planned community is introduced as an early lesson in planning studies. Here the focus is on quality, he said.

Bolden grew up in rough areas of Flatbush, he said. But he loved the diversity and the activity in the neighborhood. You walked to the store at the corner. The kids played in the streets. It was a dynamic neighborhood and he valued the interaction.

Greenbelt also has that kind of interaction, he noted. In that way it is unlike any other suburb he knows. He would like his son to grow up in an area that's dynamic, but not so much as is New York City. Presently the Boldens live in Gaithersburg, near his wife's employment.

Pinsky Scholarship Applications Open

Senator Pinsky’s 2007 scholarship applications are now available. Students who reside in the 22nd Legislative District and will attend an in-state Maryland University or trade school during the 2007-2008 academic year are encouraged to apply.

Scholarships are awarded annually to deserving undergraduate and graduate students. A volunteer committee of community members makes selections after reviewing academic achievement, financial need and commitment to higher education. Most scholarships are awarded for four years or until the recipient completes his or her degree, whichever comes first. Grants are also offered for one single academic year in addition to the automatically renewable awards. A senatorial scholarship can be held jointly with an educational assistance grant.

The 22nd Legislative District includes Berwyn Heights, Edmonston, Greenbelt, Hyattsville, Lanham, New Carrollton, Riverdale Park and University Park.

Applications are available online at: <http://www.senatorpinsky.org> or by calling Pinsky’s office at 301-858-3155. Completed applications must be submitted to Pinsky’s office no later than Tuesday, April 10.

For more information contact Pamela Shurkin at 301-858-3155 or pshurkin@senate.state.md.us.

Funds Available For Chess Programs

For the first time, the Maryland State Department of Education will provide grant funding up to $200,000 to support the Chess in Maryland Schools program. The funding was made available through a budget appropriation in the Governor’s supplemental budget during the 2006 General Assembly.

Any local school system or individual school, community-based organization or not-for-profit organization that has a desire to offer chess instruction to students in Maryland schools is eligible to apply for one of the estimated 20 grants to support an existing or new chess program. The chess programs can occur before or after school, during the instructional day or during the summer.

Gaines Scholarships Are Now Available

Delegate Tawanna P. Gaines has announced the availability of House of Delegates Scholarship applications for the 2007-2008 Academic Year. Applications are available online at www.tawannagaines.org. Completed applications should be mailed to Delegate Tawanna Gaines, 207 Lowe House Office Building, Annapolis, MD 21401 ATTN: Pamela Powers. Applications must be submitted by April 30.

Eligible applicants must live in the 22nd Legislative District, must be seniors in high school or currently attending an accredited institution of higher education in Maryland. The scholarship must be used toward undergraduate, graduate or professional studies on a full- or part-time basis or may be used toward a hospital nursing diploma school with an approved curriculum.

Recipients may be eligible for assistance if they plan to attend an out-of-state school, enroll in an academic program that is not offered in Maryland and obtain approval from the Commission. To obtain approval, the applicant must submit a request in writing to the Director of the Office of Student Financial Assistance, so that their major can be identified prior to applying for the scholarship.

Backyard Bird Watching

“Grossology” at Md. Science Center

Sometimes it’s stinky, sometimes it’s crusty and sometimes it’s slimy but it’s always a part of the human body. The Maryland Science Center will let visitors explore the science behind the mushy, oozy, crusty, scaly and stinky gunk the human body produces in its new exhibition: “Grossology: The (Impolite) Science of the Human Body.”

Based on the best-selling book, Grossology guides visitors’ instinctive interest in “gross” substances to inform them about the incredible processes of the human body. Sophisticated animatronics and imaginative hands-on activities show the good, the bad and the downright ugly about runny noses, body odor, bad breath, pimples, the digestive system and many other functions.

Grossology incorporates virtual reality, video technology and life-like models into 18 interactive displays, which allow visitors to experience the human body in a unique and fun way, such as the “Tour du Nose” which asks guests to step inside an eight-foot tall nose to explore nasal features.

When they do, they’re greeted by a blast of air as the nose lets out a loud “sneeze.”

Kids can take a ride on the “GI Slide” and simulate the route that food takes from the mouth to large intestine in this 30-foot three-dimensional model of the digestive system.

Grossology will be on display through April 29 in the Legg Mason Gallery on level two of the Maryland Science Center. The Maryland Science Center is located at 601 Light Street at Baltimore’s Inner Harbor. For information and tickets, visit www.marylandsciencecenter.org or call the 24-Hour Information Line at 410-685-5225, TDD 410-962-0223.

Work Begins on the Astronomical Pier at Northway Fields

On February 12, a warmly dressed Geo Tech crew set out to install an astronomical pier at the Northway Fields. City inspectors also examined each phase. The pier will support the 13" telescope in the Northway Fields Observatory.

At right, gooey Cynthia red clay circles out of the hole. The water table was hit at 15 feet, the clay at 25 feet. The hole goes down another 3 feet for a total depth of 28 feet.

At left, Netsum holds Herman's feet as he unbolts the shovel from the caisson.

At right, the crew installs the reinforcing rod cage.

Below, the rods are in and the caisson is set; next comes the concrete.

At right, Herman finishes trowelling the top of the pier with the bolts in place for the observatory. After all the work is done Doug Love dates the wet concrete. The pier was then covered with warming blankets to protect against the coming snow and ice.
